

N° 3941

The No 3941 hinge plate is typically used as a decorative element in conjunction with butt hinges for important doors. As the dimensions are highly dependent on the detailing of the door, hinge plates are always manufactured to order. An elevation and section of the door and the jamb should be submitted before an order is placed. All NANZ plated and patinated finishes are available. The design can be modified to suit the style of the door.
